Elder Abuse Training for Law Enforcement

About Elder Abuse

1 in 10 older adults have reported physical, sexual, emotional and/or financial abuse. With a growing population of senior citizens in Bay County, and improved reporting, officers are already encountering more situations where our older citizens are being abused.

Why You Should Attend

Law enforcement agencies will be asked to respond to and investigate elder abuse. In this training, officers will learn how to conduct investigations, that keep victims safe and hold perpetrators accountable.

Please bring your 5-digit MCOLES number with you, to be registered in the MCOLES system.

There is no charge for this training.

Who Should Attend?

All Bay County law enforcement offices are invited to send officers to a free, one-day training on Elder Abuse.

What You Will Get From Elder Abuse Training

You will learn to

- ◆ Recognize elder abuse dynamics
- ◆ Investigate cases in homes and/or care facilities'
- ◆ Collaborate on prosecution
- ◆ Make a case for financial exploitation
- ◆ Use new laws to hold offenders accountable
- ◆ Use an Elder Abuse Legal Resources Guide
